Australian Work Health and Safety Strategy 2012-22: Healthy, safe and productive working lives

Strategic outcome: Those providing work health and safety education, training and advice have the appropriate capabilities

Programmed is committed to the goal of Zero Harm.

We recognise that improvement in the capability of health and safety professionals that educate, train and give advice will contribute significantly to achievement of our goal of Zero Harm, as has also been identified by the Australian Work Health and Safety Strategy 2012 -22.

Thus we wish to contribute to the improvement in capability of all safety professionals by becoming a Supporting Partner of the Australian OHS Education Accreditation Board (AOHSEAB)

As a Supporting Partner of the AOHSEAB, we share it's vision that OHS professional education is based on strong scientific and technical concepts, evidenced-informed, delivered by suitably competent persons and so recognised by the profession, government, industry and the community.

The activities of the AOHSEAB encompass program accreditation, development and promotion of the OHS Body of Knowledge and engagement with Australian and international groups. These activities contribute to work health and safety by facilitating the education of graduates equipped with the knowledge and skills to enter the workplace as effective entry-level OHS professionals, the further development of professionals and practitioners, and the enhancement of organizational OHS capability.

Through our support for the AOHSEAB, it is demonstrating, in a practical way, our commitment to the Australian Work Health and Safety Strategy 2012-22, Healthy, safe and productive working lives and particularly achievement of the strategic outcome that those providing work health and safety education, training and advice have the appropriate capabilities.
